BOOKWATCH

SHADOWS: Simon Cabot

SHADOWS is Simon Cabot's fifth book. An American living in England, Cabot tells the story of his 30-year friendship with Shiva Patel, an Indian writer. They first met in Africa, but both went their separate ways, travelling across four continents, keeping their friendship going over the years by letter. An interesting look at an unusual friendship. Highly recommended.

LAURA CARY: Graham Adams

You may not have heard of Laura Cary, but in the 1950s she was the most popular singer in Britain, with 5 number one hits. In this biography, Graham Adams writes about just 5 years of Laura's life and looks at the problems and fears she faced at the time as well as the rewards she gained from being famous. It successfully brings to life the sights, sounds and even smells of the time. This is only Adams' third book, but a very good read.

PUPPET MAN: James Fisher

Sonny Turk is now 64 years old, and looks back at his strange career. He never wanted an ordinary life and left home at 14 to travel the world as a sailor. Returning to New York, he gives puppet shows on the streets before starting his own theatre. A colourful story of a life full of adventure. This is James Fisher's tenth book and his best so far.
